"Passionate and experienced, I am a dedicated piano teacher at Hillside with a proven track record of nurturing musical talent. With a diverse range of students spanning all ages and skill levels, from enthusiastic beginners to accomplished Grade 8 students, I take pride in tailoring lessons to suit individual needs.

During my years training as a pianist, I have had the privilege of working with leading pianists in the UK and Ireland, helping me to bring a wealth of knowledge and a unique perspective to my teaching.

In addition to teaching, I am an active musician and performer, contributing to a band whose music has been featured on BBC Introducing. We've had the privilege of performing at venues and festivals throughout London and beyond. As a music producer and songwriter, I possess skills that I am open to incorporating into lessons, offering students a well-rounded musical education and a glimpse into the creative process.

I am familiar with many exam boards and enjoy teaching a range of music styles, from classical and jazz to contemporary and pop. This diverse approach ensures that each student receives a comprehensive and engaging musical education. In addition to my work at Hillside, I also work as a piano teacher in other locations in Northwood. Through a patient and encouraging approach, I strive to inspire a lifelong love for music in every student I teach."
